Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

With increasing environmental and economic pressures, agriculture is facing a number of challenges. In particular, pests, diseases and climate change are the most prominent factors affecting crop production. Henceforth, to achieve the crop production required by an everincreasing population, there is an urgent need to implement efficient crop production based on new paradigms, integrating automation and intelligent technology. This Special Issue aims to update and refresh the developments, improvements, and applications in monitoring crop growth, modelling cropping systems or crop-environment interaction systems, and controlling cropping equipment or environment parameters.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Agronomy draws together researchers from diverse areas of agricultural research with a common aim of enhancing agricultural productivity globally. The journal provides unlimited free access to all those interested in advancing agricultural science from both the research and general community. Papers are released immediately after acceptance through the internet. Agronomy is supported by our authors and their institutes through low article processing charges (APC) for accepted papers. We hope you will support the journal by becoming one of our authors.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions. High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubAg, AGRIS, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q1 (Agronomy) / CiteScore - Q1 (Agronomy and Crop Science)
