Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

Biomedical engineers tackle some extremely difficult challenges, such as rebuilding body parts and organs. On the other hand, biologists tackle difficult challenges of their own, including cell–cell interactions and signaling, cell–matrix communication, etc. In reality, the two of them—biomedical engineers and biologists—work together to complete their tasks and achieve their goals. In the ocular world, bioengineering is crucial as we move towards the replacement of ocular parts such as the cornea, the retina, the lens, etc.

Despite significant research, many concepts and technologies remain unexplored. The second edition of this Special Issue, “Bioengineering and the Eye”, calls for original research articles as well as reviews that tackle ocular problems using bioengineering/biomedical/tissue engineering approaches.

You are invited to contribute a research article or a comprehensive review for consideration and publication in Bioengineering (ISSN 2306-5354). Bioengineering is published in open access format – research articles, reviews and other contents are released on the Internet immediately after acceptance. The scientific community and the general public have unlimited and free access to the content as soon as it is published. Bioengineering provides an advanced forum for the science and technology of bioengineering. We would be pleased to welcome you as one of our authors.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, CAPlus / SciFinder, Inspec, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q2 (Engineering, Biomedical)
