Message from the Guest Editors

Cancer biomarkers are increasingly important in the detection of earlier stages of disease; they are essential, and still in need of discovery, in the optimal dosing of anti-cancer drugs, predicting treatment-related toxicity, and selecting therapies that can most benefit either individual patients or subgroups with a particular cancer.

This Special issue will explore past and present biomarkers, novel biomarkers, and the use of biomarkers with different diagnostic and treatment options to improve the detection and management of cancer.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Cancers is an international online journal addressing both clinical and basic science issues related to cancer research. The journal is publishing in Open Access format, which will certainly evolve to ensure that the journal takes full advantage of the rapidly changing world of information and knowledge dissemination. It publishes high-quality clinical, translational, and basic science research on cancer prevention, initiation, progression, and treatment, as well as other related topics, particularly to capture the most seminal studies in the rapidly growing area of immunology, immunotherapy, and tumor microenvironment.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, Embase, CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q2 (Oncology) / CiteScore - Q1 (Oncology)
