Message from the Guest Editors

Although industrial education plays a pivotal role in the economic development of modern society, with the continuous development of modern industry, a new era of information communication technology has arisen. In the face of rapid technological and economic changes and the fading of traditional industries, technical and industrial education needs to change accordingly, which makes it necessary to understand changes in industrial education and the status and trends of related research. Therefore, this journal presents a Special Issue on the topic of "Industrial Education". Everyone is welcome to contribute.
