Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,
The aim of this Special Issue is that of collecting research articles related to innovative architectures and approaches for SCADA and energy management systems in the field of electric power systems. Contributions are welcome both from an ICT and from a power system integration point of view highlighting how such devices should adapt to ease the development of microgrids, smart grids, smart power systems, and smart mobility in the view of a deeper integration of these various aspects of the energy power supply and management.Prof. Dr. Renato Procopio
