Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

Cellular metabolism is an important function that regulates nutrient storage and energy production. Enzymes, in particular, play an important role in regulating metabolic processes, including glycolysis and the TCA cycle. Furthermore, metabolic processes are closely related to cell proliferation, cell death, and carcinogenesis, and the importance of analyzing their functions continues to grow. This Special Issue solicits papers on enzymes involved in metabolic processes.

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.
