Message from the Guest Editor

The Special Issue, titled "Molecular Mechanisms of Pregnancy Complications", aims to explore and analyze the complex biological processes and underlying molecular mechanisms that contribute to various pregnancy complications. We invite submissions that investigate the cellular and molecular causes or consequences of conditions or diseases associated with pregnancy, including gestational diabetes, preeclampsia, fetal growth restriction, and others. Our objective is to advance diagnosis, treatment, and maternal–fetal health outcomes by deepening our understanding of these disorders from both a fundamental scientific and clinical standpoint. We aim to focus on, but are not restricted to, interdisciplinary collaboration between experts in molecular biology, obstetrics, and gynecology through the acceptance of research articles, reviews, and studies that illuminate novel molecular pathways, biomarkers, and therapeutic approaches.

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.

Author Benefits

Open Access: free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, MEDLINE, Embase, CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank: JCR - Q1 (Biochemistry & Molecular Biology) / CiteScore - Q1 (Inorganic Chemistry)
