Artificial intelligence (AI), machine learning, and Big Data analytics are the keystones of advanced manufacturing. This Special Issue seeks to publish fundamental and applied research in the following broad areas to enhance advanced manufacturing systems, processes, or products in all manufacturing domains, not limited to subtractive, formative, additive, hybrid, continuous, and robot-assisted manufacturing processes.

- Predictive modeling and design
- Data-driven process monitoring, control, and optimization
- Physics-informed machine learning (Scientific machine learning/explicit AI).
- Digital twins (process or product digital twins) and applications
- Sensor data fusion
- Novel sensing and monitoring systems.
- Robot-assisted manufacturing processes and computational methods
- Industrial IoTs and applications
- Human–robot/machine interaction/collaboration
- AR/VR and other immersive techniques in advanced manufacturing
- Hybrid manufacturing (combination of additive and subtractive manufacturing)
