Message from the Guest Editor

Dear colleagues,

There has been continuing interest in theoretical and empirical research on securitized real estate. It is my pleasure to announce that I am editing a Special issue of the Journal of Risk and Financial Management on “Securitized Real Estate Asset Research”.

Both theoretical and empirical contributions are welcome. This Special Issue will publish high-quality and rigorous financial and property research relating to all aspects of property stocks, real estate investment trusts, and other forms of securitized real estate investment vehicles including, but not limited to the following topics: global market and cycle dynamics, financial market integration, financial stress and economic policy uncertainty, influences of macroeconomic factors, mixed-asset portfolio diversification and hedging, valuation and risk management, asset pricing, behavioral finance, leverage and capital structure, asset and portfolio management, corporate growth, corporate control, and international financial management. This Special Issue will aim to reflect the diversity of topics in securitized real estate asset research. The closing date of this Special Issue is 30 June 2022.
