Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

This Special Issue aims to bring together a systematic collection of works across the developing world providing insights into new efforts being made or that can be made to improve urban land and development management in the developing world. This Special Issue invites both conceptual and empirical submissions that investigate new and emerging initiatives, programmes, projects, etc. that border on improvement in urban land development management in the developing world through both theoretical and practical lenses.

The contributions may address but are not limited to the following research topics:

- Land tenure and governance;
- Land-based financing arrangements for urban infrastructure development;
- Land and real estate valuation systems;
- Housing and informal land developments;
- Urban heritage sites management; and
- Land and real estate leasehold planning and management.

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Land is the only open access journal covering all aspects of land science, and it is a pioneering platform for publishing on land system science. Our editorial board is comprised of eminent scholars. We publish high quality research on societally relevant, emerging and innovative topics and results in land system research. It is now one of the top land journals with a significant impact factor, and has a goal to become the best journal in land in the coming years. I strongly recommend Land for your best research publications for a fast dissemination of your research.
