Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

In this Special Issue, we welcome original research articles, short communications, and reviews related to the discovery, synthesis, and optimization of small-molecule inhibitors against valid viral targets of emerging viruses, including but not limited to coronaviruses, flaviviruses, retroviruses, and herpesviruses. We particularly welcome papers involving studies, either in part or in whole, that seek to evaluate and optimize drug likeness of lead compounds using Lipinski's rule of five, in silico or in vitro ADMET prediction and profiling, multiparameter optimization approaches, PK/PD modeling, or physiologically based PK (PBPK). We also encourage the submission of papers related to new antiviral targets, new antiviral drug combinations, or drug repurposing.

We look forward to receiving your submissions!
