Dear Colleague,

Due to the great success of the first Special Issue on this theme thanks to the many researchers who contributed, we now propose a new similar Special Issue and invite researchers on the area to submit their work.

The world is facing considerable challenges, contributing science to the new stages of human evolution. The Special Issue intends to offer new insights and contribute to the the context of the social, financial, and economic change in this arena.

Our proposal welcomes all kind of articles that may bring interesting contributions to the fields approached by the issue.
