Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

For this Special Issue in Nutrients journal, we would like to invite authors to contribute high-quality original research papers as well as meta-analyses and review articles highlighting novel features of nutrition and dietetics that promote global sustainable development. Currently, the term “sustainable development” is most commonly used in aspects of global and environmental health, but we would like to use it more, particularly in nutrition and environmental concerns since the education of society about proper nutrition in environmental and public health aspects is very important. In addition, we are particularly interested in scientific reports on social, economic, and health inequalities in the context of achieving sustainable development goals in nutrition and dietetics.
