Message from the Guest Editors

This section of Polymers aims to rapidly publish contributions on all aspects of bio-based polymers. We encourage the submission of manuscripts that provide novel and mechanistic insights that report significant advances in the field. Biobased polymers have various applications in medicine, tissue engineering, the food and petroleum industry, the paper and pulp industry, the printing and textile industry, etc.

Topics include, but are not limited to: Synthesis of biobased polymers; Characterization of biobased polymers; Properties of biobased polymers; Derivatization of biobased polymers; Conversion of biobased polymers into fine chemicals; Nanocomposites of biobased polymers; Environmental sustainability; Biocompatibility; Micro- and nanoencapsulation; Natural fibers; Biopolymers processing and performance; Applications of biobased polymers; Hydrogels; Wood composites; Cellulose, lignin, and hemicelluloses; Starch; Chitin-chitosan; Dextran, pullulan, and glucans; Alginate; Rubber; Proteins like collagen, casein, soy protein, zein, silk, etc.; Polyesters produced by bacteria like polyhydroxyalkanoates; Polyamides synthesized by bacteria, such as poly(glutamic acid).
