Message from the Guest Editor

Corporate finance is becoming central to business administration in sustainability. The corporate finance functions support every aspect of business policies, practices and decisions regarding sustainability and corporate social responsibility. An awareness and understanding of corporate finance and business administration in sustainability is essential to succeed as an executive. This Special Issue will focus on corporate finance, which either helps businesses succeed or fail.

In this Special Issue, original research articles and reviews on all areas of corporate finance are welcome. Research areas may include, but are not limited to, the following: financial structure, governance, compensation and incentive, payout, innovation, risk management, financial contracting, green finance and international finance.
