Message from the Guest Editors

This current special issue seeks to take an integrated approach and aims to draw on theoretical and empirical studies that address the intersection between sustainable development investment policy and projects, operations and supply chain management activities of organizations. We welcome papers from both profits and not-for-profit organizations across all sectors and industries as well as case studies across the globe.

In this Special Issue, original research articles and reviews are welcome. Research areas may include (but not limited to) the following:

- The circular economy and sustainable development investment in projects, operations and supply chain management.
- Strategic implementation of sustainability—models, tools, frameworks and techniques projects, operations and supply chain management.
- Sustainable processes in the projects, operations and supply chain management.
- Sustainability investment and policy implementation risks in projects, operations and supply chain management.
- Comprehensive literature review of the intersection between sustainable development and projects, operations and supply chain management.
