Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue will provide an in-depth analysis and comprehensive overview of the mechanisms underlying successful invasions and the loss of biodiversity considering the coupled regulation of mutualistic relationships between the two.

Original research articles and reviews are welcome. Research areas may include (but are not limited to) the following:

- Effects and mechanisms of biological invasion of alien invasive species on the growth of native species;
- The role of native species during the invasion process of alien invasive species;
- The relationship between alien invasive species diversity and that of native species;
- The effects and mechanisms of biological invasion of alien invasive species on plant diversity;
- Impacts of biological invasion of alien invasive species on animal diversity;
- Impacts and mechanisms of biological invasion mediated by alien invasive species on microbial diversity and the mechanisms;
- Impacts and mechanisms of biodiversity on community invasibility and resistance to biological invasion.

I look forward to receiving your contributions.
