Message from the Guest Editors

The Special Issue invites the papers addressing what strategies and measures (teaching tools and research practices) are being applied to invent sustainable higher education in the post-COVID-19 world. We welcome researchers engaged in higher education practices to share and exchange their research experiences, including innovative methods, pedagogical approaches, and sustainable initiatives that they are practicing in the post-pandemic era. We encourage interdisciplinary empirical and conceptual contributions that open up new lines of inquiry in the field.

Keywords: higher education; sustainable education; sustainability strategy; sustainability; challenges of post-COVID-19 world; online teaching and learning; working conditions in higher education; student mobility; 21st century skills
