Message from the Guest Editors

Social entrepreneurship (SE) is not only a business phenomenon whereby firms use commercial means to achieve social objectives (Battilana & Lee, 2014; Saebi et al., 2019), but also a public- and private-value phenomenon of individuals mobilizing private resources to produce a public good/service that simultaneously addresses sustainability issues and achieves personal goals (Chandra, Lee, & Tjiptono, 2021). Despite some initial studies that indicated the link between social entrepreneurship and sustainability (Bansal, et al., 2019; Gupta, et al., 2020; Saebi et al., 2019; Zhang & Swanson, 2014), little is known about the roles, motives, orientations, values, processes, and outcomes of social entrepreneurship as a tool to achieve sustainability and sustainable development. This Special Issue welcomes original high-quality papers that offer quantitative and qualitative empirical papers as well as theoretical and conceptual work that will discuss relevant aspects of SE and sustainable business
